THINGS TO DO ATLANTA SCIENCE FESTIVAL

Explore the many ways science is part of life

Festival meets the challenge of offering something uniquely fun for everyone.

By Shane Harrison

shane.harrison@ajc.com

s we head into another week of the Atlanta Science Festival, there's still so much to do and learn. Many of these events, which continue through Saturday, are so much fun that you might not even notice you're learning something new.

Now in its 10th year, the festival explores the intersection of science, technology, engineering and math with the food, nature and the arts. It's an enlightening and entertaining way to learn about the many ways science is woven into our everyday lives.

"What we really try to do is connect science to things that everybody is interested in, because not everyone is not interested in science, or they think they're not," festival co-founder Meisa Salaita said recently on our weekly Go Atlanta podcast. "But they're interested in fashion ... or they're interested in food, and we can tell you how science is connected to that."

Throughout the week, there are opportunities to learn and

MUSIC 'GLU'

Usher's new single features Lil Jon-Sean Garrett reunion

R&B crooner also has an album coming out, sequel to 'Confessions.'

By DeAsia Paige

Usher's legacy is frequently debated online as if he isn't one of the bestselling R&B artists of this century. Social media constantly pits him in a hypothetical Verzuz battle against his predecessor R. Kelly and Chris Brown, whom he almost mentored. Usher has more hits and has sold more records than both. And he has a timeless catalog of tracks, encapsulating sounds that range from pop to R&B to EDM, that cements a peerless career in popular music.

While working on new music for the R&B crooner, Lil Jon and his collaborators wanted to remind people of Usher's superstar status. The Atlanta-based rapper and producer knows Usher has no true rival.

"That definitely was crossing all our minds when we were making it just to show people how talented he is. He's singing in a falsetto in this song, and it just shows his range, he said. "People were probably expecting us to do an up-tempo or a club song for him to start, but to show him on this ballad and show his range and his singing ability, he's still got it. He's still

VISUAL ARTS REVIEW 'JOSEPH STELLA: VISIONARY NATURE'

"Purissima" (1927) by Joseph Stella. COURTESY OF HIGH MUSEUM OF ART

Stylized nature works explored

Artist Joseph Stella's idiosyncratic renderings exhibited at the High.

By Louise E. Shaw ArtsATL

When I first encountered "Purissima," Joseph Stella's 1927 oil on canvas acquired by the High Museum of Art in 2000, I was enchanted by this phantasmagoric painting of a Madonna of purity. Facing center like a religious icon, she is flanked by linear, long-necked herons and stylized flora on a background of saturated cerulean blue, one of Stella's favorite colors.

This amazing painting didn't align with my understanding of Stella. Like many others, I knew him primarily for his modernist, urban paintings associated with Precisionism and Futurism, his Brooklyn Bridge works being his most emblematic.

The High's "Joseph Stella: Visionary Nature," organized in collaboration with the Brandywine Museum of Art, has now contextualized "Purissima" by gathering 120 paintings, drawings and collages from 36 museums and 25 collectors.

The works thematically explore Stella's idiosyncratic renderings of nature and memories of Italy (which he visited frequently) as well as his extraordinary skills as draftsman and colorist.

He was colleagues with, and aligned with, some of the most avant-garde artists and think-

JOYFUL DAILY

New approach can reignite quest for happiness

The International Day of Happiness is celebrated throughout the world today.

When we ask clients what they most desire, most answer that they want to be happy. For many people, happiness seems elusive, like an unobtainable, unrealistic goal. Perhaps they've tried repeatedly to find happiness in a variety of ways, including relationships, special vacations, self-help books and other pursuits. Still, they just plainly don't feel happy. So maybe a shift in focus is in order.

Angela and Dennis Buttimer For the AJC

What if you could find reasonable happiness today, then water those seeds for greater contentment and pleasure?

It seems the people of Finland have done that. For five years in a row, Finland has been ranked as the happiest country in the world, according to the World Happiness Report. Finnish psychologist Frank Martela says there are three notable things Finnish people don't do: ■ They don't compare themselves to their neighbors.

■ They don't overlook the benefits of nature.

■ They don't break the community circle of trust.

Here are some tips based on the Finnish happiness quotient:

■ Focus on what makes you happy without comparing yourself to others.

■ Spend time in nature often. Enjoy the sunshine, fresh air and greenery.

■ Build trust in your world through small acts. Try giving up your seat on the train or paying for someone's coffee.

You can find happiness by being present and feeling satisfied as often as possible.

Taylor Swift releases four 'Taylor's Version' songs for Eras Tour launch

By Nardine Saad Los Angeles Times

Taylor Swift debuted "four previously unreleased songs" ahead of the recent launch of her highly anticipated, Ticketmaster-breaking stadium tour. The "Anti-Hero" and "Lavender Haze" hitmaker dropped the singles at midnight Friday "in celebration of the Eras Tour," which follows the October release of her critically acclaimed and record-breaking "Midnights" album. Swift announced her latest auditory offering Thursday via Instagram stories and they manifested on Spotify hours later.

The tunes are all "Taylor's Version" tracks, meaning they are rerecordings of music that got stuck in ownership limbo when her former label, Big Machine Records, was sold in 2019. Swift lost the master recordings to her first six albums but later "devised a plan to rerecord her early work as a way to devalue those masters

by essentially supplanting them in the marketplace with product she owns,' L.A. Times music critic Mikael Wood explained.

The country-crossover star released the handful of recordings branded with her subtle-flex parenthetical. They include the guitar-heavy rock ballad "Eyes Open (Taylor's Version)" and "Safe & Sound (Taylor's Version)" featuring the Civil Wars' Joy Williams and John Paul White.

The 33-year-old superstar also debuted "If This Was a Movie (Taylor's Ver-be entertained. At the Alliance Theatre, "Roob and Noob" is an interactive adventure that follows two curious scientists as they build machines from simple objects, highlighting the importance of learning through simply playing. The show is at 11 a.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

Also on Tuesday at the GSU Perimeter College Clarkston Campus, take a groovy trip back in time to "The Psychedelic 60s" with an exploration of 10 scientific achievements from that decade, along with a chance to make your own "moon rocks," psychedelic lava lamps and color changing flowers.

At the Peachtree Library, the University of Georgia College of Pharmacy will present "Germ Busters," which will show participants how to make hand sanitizer and offer a look at different pharmacy careers and how to prepare for them.

There are events aimed at adults, too, including "Jazz Hands: A Science Comedy Event." The festival's brochure asserts that scientists are funny, noting that "because we're scientists, we've got data to back that statement up." This event, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the World Studio at Zoo Atlanta, is for people age 21 and up.

Get a closer look at the microscopic world at the Atlanta Science Festival, where you can also meet reptiles, make moon rocks and lava lamps and print 3D images of your own bones. ROB FELT/ATLANTA SCIENCE FESTIVAL

And at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Arches Brewing in Hapeville, "Solve for X" is a science variety show where professional artists will do short performances inspired by science, while scientists take on improv comedy.

Friday brings chances to explore the Doll's Head Trail at Constitution Lakes and the wildflowers in Fernbank Forest. That's the day to look to the skies, too, as the Dunwoody Observatory hosts "Stars, the Moon and Other Out of This World Awesomeness."

For those unable to venture out, there are virtual events. On Thursday night, join science journalists and authors Bethany Brookshire and Maryn McKenna online as they discuss Brookshire's new book, "Pests: How Humans Create Animal Villains." Register for the event on the science festival's website.

Everything culminates with the Exploration Expo on Saturday, when everyone is invited to Piedmont Park to celebrate science. The free, daylong event promises that you'll be able to smell outer space, 3-D print your own bones, get a look inside a jet engine, control a robot with your brain and so much more. You can also meet frogs, lizards, snakes and, of course, scientists.

release under Gamma, the new music company created by former Apple Music executive Larry Jackson. The song, out today, is about four minutes of Usher singing almost entirely in his upper range, more than he has on any song he's dropped in the past. Only the indelible falsetto chorus of 2012's "Climax," for which Usher earned a best R&B performance Grammy, comes close to mirroring the tone and texture of "GLU." But his latest single is more sultry and supple – reminiscent of the funk-tinged amatory pleasure and desire that soundtracked '80s R&B. Adding to the song's sensual appeal, model and bona fide it-girl Lori Harvey will star in the upcoming music video.

Usher sounds like he's ready to make classic R&B songs again.

Produced and written by Sean Garrett, The Avila Brothers and Lil Ion. "GLU" features booming 808s and chronicles a steamy, sticky night of passion. But it's Usher's voice that truly defines the song. Testing the limits of Usher's vocal capabilities is exactly what Sean Garrett intended to do when creating the song. "We wanted to give Usher a record that would be game changing for his career again, and we also wanted to give him some superhero music, something that today people just don't necessarily think about from all aspects of life," Garrett said. "I feel like Usher is probably one of the greatest R&B superstars of this generation. We wanted to give him something that wasn't predictable.'

The multiplatinum hitmaker and fellow Atlanta native said legendary music executive L.A. Reid, who helped found the former Atlanta-based label LaFace Records, called him last year to work on new music for Usher. (Last month's GQ profile of Usher revealed that he and Reid are working together for the first time in nearly 20 years and will start their own record label.) Lil Jon received the same request, and the pair, along with The Avila Brothers, connected in Las Vegas, where Usher has had a residency since 2021, to create the song. "GLU" marks the first time that Usher, Sean Garrett and Lil Jon have collaborated since 2004's smash hit "Yeah!'

Grammy-winning singer Usher, who released his new single "GLU" on Friday, is shown performing in Las Vegas in 2022. The artist is also working on an album and his own record label. DENISE TRUSCELLO/GETTY IMAGES FOR DOLBY LIVE AT PARK MGM

Lil Jon and Garrett penned and produced countless hits that defined hip-hop and R&B in the early years of this century. Dubbed "The Pen," Garrett wrote chart-topping hits for artists like Beyoncé, Mary J. Blige, Ciara, 112 and more. To date, he's had 18 No. 1 songs on the Billboard Hot 100. Lil Jon has established himself as a pioneer of crunk music while producing hits for the likes of Ciara, Pitbull and Petey Pablo. The 51-yearold producer and DJ thinks the pair has another hit on their hands with "GLU."

The melody and beat for the song were made in about an hour, according to Lil Jon. He said he admired Garrett's laser-focused vision in finishing the track. "I think we did that record on the first day we were in the studio," Lil Jon said. "(Garrett) kind of helped us to get that out of the way. ("GLU") is a nod to Prince, it's a nod to old-school slow songs, it's a nod to making love on records. It's about having a good time in the bedroom and being sensual. ... He came up with the melody for the song while we made the beat. ... Some people may take two weeks or a month on one song, but we knocked it out quick.

But solidifying a concept for the song took Garrett at least a month to complete. He wanted to make a song that honored Usher's core fan base over the years – women of almost every generation.

"His first (big) single was You Make Me Wanna' and then came songs like 'Nice & Slow' or 'U Got It Bad,' Garrett said. "Usher is a superstar and an amazing performer. R&B is supposed be to sexy. It's supposed to be intense and powerful. I wanted to do a song that made the women feel special and sexy without being overt.

"This song is for everybody. This song is not just grown people. It's for sexy people. So whether you're 19 or you're 48, this is a sexy, powerful, emotionally groundbreaking, for today's market, song for you.

Although Usher hasn't officially announced a new album, he confirmed to USA Today last year that he's nearly finished with the sequel to his 2004 R&B blockbuster "Confessions." The diamond-certified album – boasting hits like "Yeah!," "Burn," and "My Boo" – is one of the best-selling albums of all time, selling more than 15 million copies worldwide. The album turns 20 next March. And most of the same team that was behind that monumental LP is behind the new one. But can they create the same magic?

"GLU" takes a giant leap in that direction.

"It's been that long and we all are still in the game and we still have it and feel young and we're coming together," Lil Jon said. "You have the whole team back. It feels really spe-
